

Assemblies at Carrington

All assemblies will:

- Bring together the whole school to celebrate successes, instilling a pride in being part of our school
- Reinforce high expectations and principles of the school behaviour curriculum
- Offer a balance of 'Windows and Mirrors'; broadening horizons whilst reflecting on and valuing our children's cultural experiences within our diverse community

Whole school assemblies held each week at Carrington.

Carrington Values

Assemblies will be an opportunity to reinforce the Carrington, connect them to events/people in the real world and celebrate instances where children have shown them at school.

Golden Threads

The golden threads from the school curriculum will be discussed and explored, linked when appropriate to national and global awareness days, considering how we can show these threads in action at our school.

One assembly each half-term will be led by a pupil voice action group, considering different ways to improve the school and promoting the concept of democracy.

Personal Development and the British Values

Elements of the personal development curriculum will be revisited in weekly assemblies. A balance of windows and mirrors is struck in these assemblies, teaching children about different people, values and cultures whilst reflecting on those that are within our school community. In addition to other elements of personal development, each half-term, an assembly will be committed to:

- E-Safety

Assemblies at Carrington

- Celebration of Different Faiths; At Carrington, we have replaced the word tolerance for celebration in recognition of the strength that comes with a diverse and multi-cultural society.

The British Values are promoted not just in one assembly but throughout all assemblies at Carrington. When they are discussed directly, designed gestures are used to enable all the children from EYFS to Year 6 to recall the values and develop a strong understanding of their meaning.
